

Faculty International Enrichment Program

In order to promote interest, knowledge and participation of faculty in the importance of international study and research, the Center for International Studies will administer a program with the goal of providing opportunities to faculty for internationalization.

The programs will provide resources to (1) promote faculty participation in directing future student summer programs, (2) to encourage research in global issues in their respective disciplines, and (3) to provide international teaching opportunities and exchanges.

The Center for International Studies is pleased to announce the following program:

Faculty International Research Grants

- The Center for International Studies will provide one faculty member from each college competitive research grants up to a maximum of $2,000 each year to encourage faculty to pursue international issues within their respective disciplines. Each college may submit single or multiple applications up to the maximum amount. These grants may be used for expenses related to prospective research as follows:
  - Travel to sites for research development
  - Travel to sites for collaborative research
  - Participation in discipline specific faculty development programs with other institutions, programs, etc. (e.g. FDIB CIBER sponsored programs)
- Eligible faculty must be tenure-track or tenured faculty and employed by ASU for a minimum of three years.
- The application requires a letter stating the faculty members' objectives for participation and how these will be used to enrich their current classes or further their research. Application letters should be sent to the appropriate department head and dean for approval and letters of recommendation. Faculty nominations from each college will be received by the Center for International Studies during the academic year until funding is fully awarded.
